The Benefits of employing an ALCI Member

The landscape contractor who has supplied this quotation is a member of the Association of Landscape Contractors of Ireland (ALCI). The ALCI was founded in 1971 and is the leading professional body for landscape contractors in Ireland, with over 140 members. From its inception, it has endeavoured to improve quality and standards in the landscape industry in Ireland.

On joining the ALCI, members are required to sign up to our Code of Conduct. This involves pledging to carry out their business to the very highest industry standards. It means investing in staff training and skills development, adhering to health and safety regulations, having adequate insurance cover and running their operations with honesty and integrity.

By choosing an ALCI professional landscape contractor to design and construct a small private garden or manage a large commercial landscaping project, maintain your grounds or undertake any work, of whatever scale, you can be assured of professional excellence, value for money, and outstanding customer service.

So, when selecting a company to handle your landscape project, be sure the company you hire is a member of the ALCI. This gives you confidence that your job will be completed with a commitment to a higher standard of knowledge and execution.

For more information please contact the ALCI office.
